BEATING OF HEART IS SEEN.

Man with Gaping Wound in the Side Dies After a Week.

Middletown, N. Y., Nov. 10.—With his body cut open, so that the heart could be plainly seen, George Jones, of Otisville, lived for a week at Thrall Hospital, in this city, his case attracting the attention of physicians all over the country. He died late last night.

On November 1 Jones was stabbed by William Mason while in an argument over a game of cards. Jones was brought to Thrall Hospital in a dying condition. Physicians closed the wound, which exposed the heart, and waited for his death. He continued to live, however, and his case was considered one of the most remarkable ever treated at the hospital. The murderer, Mason, made his escape and is being sought for.

MUSIC TEACHER A SUICIDE.

Mrs. Julie Wyman Turns on Gas in Daughter's Apartment.

New York, Nov. 10.—The body of Mrs. Julie Wyman, a teacher of music and singing, was found early to-day in an apartment on the top floor of 736 Lexington avenue, rented by her daughter, Clara Wyman, who was away from home. Mrs. Wyman had committed suicide by gas, practically filling a small hall bedroom with it. Mrs. Wyman was fifty years old, and is supposed to have been at one time an opera singer. Her home was at 127 South Sixteenth street, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Wyman had three daughters, Clara, Florence, and another whose name the police have as Lorena. Florence and Lorena are at present in Europe. Clara is a painter and artist, and she has several paintings made by herself in the room, she occupies in Lexington avenue. Her mother has lived in Philadelphia for some years alone.

A BLOUSE SUIT FOR THE LITTLE MAN.

The tiny suit, consisting of blouse and knickerbockers, is as dear to the proud mother of a small boy as to the little wearer himself, to whom it means a stepping stone between the "girly" frocks of babyhood and the more mannish garments of schoolboy days. The suit shown in the sketch is a simple and pretty model, the blouse being constructed on the general lines of the popular Russian blouse, with side-front closing. A facing of contrasting material serves to simulate the shield in front and back, a soutache trimming accentuating the effect. The knickerbockers are sufficiently full to allow for the strenuous exertions of the healthy small boy, and will be precisely what he will delight in wearing. A pretty striped serge was used for making the suit, though any preferred woolen or tub goods might be substituted. To make the four-year size requires 2 1/2 yards of material 42 inches wide. Sizes, 2, 4, and 6 years.

A pattern of this may be obtained by enclosing 10 cents in stamps and addressing Pattern Department, The Washington Herald, 734 Fifteenth street northwest, giving number (2693) wanted.
